

SUSTAINABILITY

AIS

AIS systems contain at least 40% recycled materials, AIS achieved BIFMA e3 level® certification on their products, and >50% of the power used in their facility is returned to the grid through rooftop solar panels.

For more, visit their website:

<https://bit.ly/491ZpWu>

OFS

In the 60s, OFS began to notice the effects of deforestation on southern Indiana. They took action with more sustainable production methods, and have reclaimed 7,000 acres of FSC certified forests. For more, visit their website:

<https://bit.ly/3M3nfag>

LESRO

Solar energy now provides 100% of the electricity used to power Lesro's 270,000 square foot production facility and offices. They are dedicated to eco-friendly operations that foster an environmentally sustainable future. For more, visit their website: <https://bit.ly/3ZZ3aYw>

9to5 Seating

9to5 Seating is committed to sustainable and environmentally responsible business practices, including offering GREENGUARD GOLD Certified products. For more, visit their website: <https://bit.ly/48YEEL6>

Exemplis: Symmetry

Exemplis and their brands' lean manufacturing practices allow them to conserve resources, eliminate waste efficiently, and ultimately design responsible products that are durable and long-lasting. For more, visit their website: <https://bit.ly/45yzfYd>

UMF Medical

UMF Medical received the Governor's Impact Award, which is given to recognize leading companies and entrepreneurs for the impact they are making in the Commonwealth. To learn more, check out their website: <https://bit.ly/46AuPBy>

Altus

Environmentally speaking. Altus' form was created to minimize material use and mechanical complexities while maximizing ease of adjustability and performance. To learn more, check out their website: <https://bit.ly/3ZYajZ7>

Clinton Industries

Clinton Industries is positioned to move in to the future. To learn more, check out their website: <https://bit.ly/3SOrMOD>